

LEARNED LESSONS

Loss of knowledge is one of the most significant expenses that affect an organization.

The documentation and availability of lessons learned in an organization are essential to avoid repeating errors, improve efficiency, facilitate knowledge transfer, foster innovation, and maintain organizational memory.

By doing so, the organization can benefit from its present and past experience, using it to make more informed decisions and achieve sustained growth and development, especially when sharing with facilities in different locations.

Problems encountered, risks addressed, improvements implemented, and projects undertaken are valuable sources of lessons learned.

Some benefits of documenting lessons learned are:

1. Avoids repeating mistakes.

Information related to past and present issues addressed in different areas or facilities allows for more informed decision-making and prevents the loss of time and resources.

2. Enhancing efficiency and productivity.

Learning from others' previous experiences and applying successful approaches in daily work prevents starting from scratch and accelerates the achievement of objectives.

3. Facilitates knowledge transfer.

When personnel leave an organization or change their responsibilities, documenting lessons learned ensures that acquired knowledge is not lost. It guarantees a smoother transition and reduces the time to obtain the necessary knowledge and skills for the job.

4. Encourages innovation and continuous learning.

It fosters a culture of continuous learning and improvement within the organization. People share their experiences and contribute to collective knowledge, which generates innovative ideas, new solutions, and more effective approaches.

5. Helps maintain organizational memory.

Organizational memory extends beyond individuals, keeping a historical record of challenges faced, implemented solutions, and achieved results. It provides continuity to knowledge.

Metricos apps guide you step by step

The Lessons Learned App is a collaborative tool designed to document and access the organization's positive and negative experiences, such as encountering problems, identifying risks, implementing improvements, and completing projects.

Lead your organization to another level of performance with Métricos.

Request a demo by WhatsApp at +52 55 4006-7589 or by email to contacto@metricos.mx.